DIGITAL LEARNING WITH MICROPRACTICE™

The science of learning shows that you are much more likely to translate your learning into action if you get the opportunity to engage in small doses of no-risk practice with feedback. That's what this program's digital platform will provide you — weekly opportunities to practice “moments-of-truth” and “missions” to experiment with new behaviors and mindsets and observe and learn in small steps. We call this MicroPractice™.

PROGRAM FACULTY

Paul Ingram, Faculty Co-Director
Kravis Professor of Business, Columbia Business School

Paul Ingram's research examines the intersection between culture and social networks. Recent papers investigate questions such as the role of value similarity to foster business networks, determinants and outcomes of individuals' fit in organizational cultures, and influences on ethical decision making.

Hitendra Wadhwa, Faculty Co-Director
*Professor of Practice, Columbia Business School
Founder, Mentora, the Institute for Life and Leadership*

Hitendra Wadhwa is regularly involved with many Fortune 500 corporations in strategy consulting and leadership development. His widely acclaimed research and teaching on leadership have been covered by Fortune, Psychology Today, BBC World Service, Financial Times, and the Wall Street Journal.

Along with Professors Ingram and Wadhwa, additional Columbia Business School faculty may contribute to and teach in the program.

WHY COLUMBIA BUSINESS SCHOOL?

Columbia Business School is the only Ivy League institution that delivers a learning experience where academic excellence meets real-time exposure to the pulse of business in New York City.
